

Company name

Baron Engineering Consultants

Brief company overview

We are chartered graduate engineers with over forty years' experience of power, water and naval engineering. Our areas of specialty include the project management of power stations, water treatment works and combined heat and power systems. Those CHP systems powered by gas engines or dual fuel engines associated with heat exchanges and gas booster pumps are our forte. Our work also includes plant commissioning, failure investigation and report writing as part of an expert witness and inspection service. Particular fields of expertise as regards engines include large marine diesels, power station standby diesels and gas turbine engines.
